

Rosetta Stone Picks Top European Films to Watch this Halloween

Film lovers can celebrate Halloween while immersing themselves in language

October 27, 2014 – Rosetta Stone, the leading provider of language-learning solutions, encourages language learners to celebrate Halloween by watching a foreign film. To make things easy, Rosetta Stone has compiled a list of some of the most well-known European horror, scary and thrilling films in the last 50 years.

Listening to a foreign language helps individuals accustom themselves to new sounds, pronunciation and familiarise themselves with colloquial terms. Combining foreign languages and films is just one of the ways in which you have fun while learning something new.

This Halloween, to get into the spirit of the holiday, why not watch “Suspiria” by Dario Argento to brush up on your Italian or the “Let the Right One In” to start learning Swedish? Check out Alejandro Amenábar “Open Your Eyes” on Halloween and improve your rusty Spanish. What better way to spend Halloween than watching scary films?

About Rosetta Stone

Rosetta Stone provides cutting-edge interactive technology that is changing the way the world learns languages. The company's proprietary learning techniques—acclaimed for their power to unlock the natural language-learning ability in everyone— are used by 8,000 corporations, 9,000 public and non-profit agencies, 20,000 educational institutions and over 9 million of learners around the world. Rosetta Stone offers courses in over 20 languages, from the most commonly spoken (like German, Spanish and Mandarin) to the less prominent (including Vietnamese, Swedish and Tagalog). The company was founded in 1992 on the core beliefs that learning to speak a language should be a natural and instinctive process, and that interactive technology can activate the language immersion method powerfully for learners of any age.

Rosetta Stone is based in Arlington, VA, and has offices in Harrisonburg, VA, Boulder, CO, Austin, TX, San Francisco, CA, Seattle, WA, Seoul, São Paulo and Dubai. The office for Europe is in London.
